Russellville Man to Head State Legion

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Department of the American Legion, winding up its three-day convention here Sunday, elected Bob Legan of Russellville as its commander. Elected as vice commanders were J. W. Rumble of West Memphis, Ernest Guber of McGehee, Carl White of Warren and Frank Curtis of Fayetteville.

Ray Henry of Siloam Springs was elected historian, and the Rev. George Fletcher of Grady (Lincoln County) was re-elected chaplain.

The Legionnaires elected L. E. Fisher of Little Rock as their representative on the organization's National Executive Committee and named Kelly O. Hill of Huntsville as his alternate.

The Legion Auxiliary elected Miss Inez Marin of Little Rock as president, and Mrs. H. C. Rushing of El Dorado, Mrs. Della Allen of Batesville, Mrs. Joe Holloway of Dumas and Mrs. Lillie Mae Morris of Mulberry (Crawford County) as vice presidents.

Changed Mind on Retiring
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — Sam E. Adkisson, 61, of Conway, who announced several weeks ago that he would retire July 15 as Conway's postmaster, said Saturday that he had notified the St. Louis Division of the Postal Department that he had changed his mind and intended to continue in the job he has held since April 1962.

Luncheons in Hope that Day. Governor Rockefeller and Dr. Wayne Babbitt of the Poultry and Livestock Commission will have lunch at the Diamond with Agricultural people of the area.

Cattlemen, Poultry people, timber and other farm people are invited to be on hand for the luncheon. There will be a question and answer period to follow. At the same time the other Department Heads will have luncheon at the Town & Country and businessmen interested in Education, Banking, Finance, Insurance, Welfare, or any of the other departments are invited to have Dutch Treat luncheon with these leaders and stay for the question and answer period until 1:30 p.m.

At 1:45 p.m. Governor Rockefeller will tour the Southwest Branch Experiment Station and some Department Heads will visit their local offices if they exist in Hope areas such as Welfare, Revenue, Etc.

From 2:30 to 5:00 p.m. there will be another two and one half hour period for citizens of Southwest Arkansas to visit with Governor Rockefeller and any Department Head at the Red River School.

This innovation in State Government by Governor Rockefeller marks the first time citizens of Arkansas have had the government brought to them. It opens all doors of all offices to any citizen who has any matter to bring to the attention of the State Government. It is hoped many citizens will avail themselves of these opportunities.

lines." He did not go so far as to predict that his resolution would be adopted. But he said that "if the General Assembly could adopt a decision along those lines, it could then entrust the Security Council with implementing that decision, and if that decision were not complied with, then appropriate sanctions could be applied."

Only after Israel's withdrawal, he said, could there be consideration of such questions as limiting arms shipments to the Middle East, guaranteeing the existence of all states there and ensuring freedom of passage through disputed waterways — "questions the solution of which could bring about a stronger peace in the area."

The United States is sponsoring a resolution calling for negotiations on withdrawal and all related questions together.

Thinks He, Stephens Could Unite Demos
CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — State Sen. Guy "Mutt" Jones of Conway said here Saturday that he thought only he and W. R. "Witt" Stephens could weld the state Democratic Party into a solid unit.

Jones said Stephens, president and chairman of the board of the Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co., could run for governor, with Jones running for lieutenant governor.

Jones said such a lineup would attract members of the party opposed to Jim Johnson, the 1966 Democratic gubernatorial nominee, and those who supported him.

Says Oswald Had Time to Fire 3 Shots

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System said Sunday its investigation of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy found that Lee Harvey Oswald had enough time to fire three shots at the auto carrying Kennedy.

Many critics of the 26-volume Warren Commission report have contended that the rifle used by Oswald was not capable of being fired three times in 5.6 seconds — the time commission tests indicated was used in firing the shots.

Other critics have pointed to the amateur film taken by Abraham Zapruder on Nov. 22, 1963, in Dallas, which also puts the time angle in doubt.

CBS said in the first of a four-part series on the assassination that it concluded "a Mannlicher-Carcano rifle can be fired as accurately and rapidly — and probably more — as the commission believed."

Also, CBS said, the film shot by Zapruder "was quite possibly running slower than the commission thought." Blurs on three of the film frames indicates "something startled Mr. Zapruder," CBS said. It said evidence showed "a rifle shot is what startled him."

CBS said that in its experiments from a 60-foot tower, the same height as the sixth-floor window of the School Book Depository, one of its 11 volunteer marksmen made three hits in 5.2 seconds. CBS said another got one hit from three shots in 4.1 seconds — all with Mannlicher-Carcano rifles.

CBS said its investigation supported Warren Commission findings that Oswald owned a rifle, took one to the depository building, and Oswald was in the building on the sixth floor when the three shots were fired. Walter Cronkite who narrated the program, said the network's second and third telecasts would cover conspiracy theories.

Labor Group Endorses Appointment

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller told the Arkansas-Oklahoma Teamsters Joint Council No. 92 Saturday that he did not think the office of labor commissioner should be considered a "branch office of the Arkansas AFL-CIO."

Rockefeller made the statement in reference to his appointment of Dotson Collins of Huntsville as state labor commissioner. The state AFL-CIO criticized Rockefeller's appointment of Collins, who is a member of Teamsters Local 878 of Little Rock. The Teamsters Union is not affiliated with the AFL-CIO.

The Joint Council passed a resolution Saturday praising Rockefeller for his selection of Collins.

Rockefeller told the Teamsters he was trying to upgrade the state's vocational-technical educational program.

Council President Odell Smith of Little Rock introduced the governor and mentioned that Rockefeller had supported a proposed minimum wage law introduced during the 1967 legislative session.

"As a lifelong Democrat, I'm ashamed to say that a Democratic legislature defeated it," Smith said.

Henry H. Fowler said he would be forced to put an "Out of Business" sign on the Treasury door if the bill isn't approved. The temporary debt ceiling now is $336 billion. The permanent ceiling of $285 billion will go back into effect at 12:01 a.m. Saturday, which is the start of a new fiscal year, unless action comes.

The House earlier this month narrowly approved a hike in the permanent ceiling to $358 billion, with another $7 billion available after July 1, 1968.

The Senate Finance Committee is expected to approve the plan and send it on for final Senate action and presidential signature.

The Senate, ready for legislative business after spending nine days on the censure of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., planned to meet two hours earlier than usual so it could work toward a 10-day Fourth of July recess to begin Thursday.

Prime business in the House is action on a compromise authorization for the National Teachers Corps—the program which sends special teams of teachers to work with underprivileged pupils in slum areas.

The bill would authorize $135 million for the corps over the next three years—90 per cent of the program's financing. But local school officials, with state school agency approval, would recruit, select and enroll the corps members. The federal government now does this.

If the authorization is not granted by Friday, $3.8 million in funds appropriated for the current year will be lost.

Senate leaders plan quick action if the House approves the bill, worked out in committee last week.

Meredith Leads Small Band Marchers

BATESVILLE, Miss. (AP) — James H. Meredith led a small band of admirers deeper into Mississippi today although he may cut about 25 miles off the 200-mile march he had planned. Meredith, footsore and weary, said Sunday during a stop at nearby Sardis, as he celebrated his 34th birthday, that he may walk along U.S. 51 only as far as Canton on his renewed "march against fear."

A year ago at Canton, Meredith resumed his march toward Jackson after recovering from wounds from an ambush shotgun blast on the second day of his trek. Canton is about 25 miles north of Jackson.

Meredith resumed the march Saturday at the place where he was shot.

Meredith, whose enrollment at the all-white University of Mississippi nearly five years ago touched off a night of rioting which left two dead and several hundred injured, also said he had another reason for not marching all the way to Jackson this year.

"I don't want to be embarrassed that way again," said Meredith, recalling that the state Capitol had been sealed off last year to civil rights marchers who took up the trek after he was wounded.

Hard stares from white on-lookers, a few muttered curse words, a jeering song by a group of white youths in bathing trunks, Confederate flags on radio antennas on passing autos: these are as close to an incident that Meredith has faced.

Mosquitoes are numerous in lands near the Arctic Circle, despite the cold.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

PHILANDERER'S PHONY VALUES

Dear Helen:

Speaking of Man the Philanderer: married men have totally phony values. Cheating is a status symbol - at conventions; an ego-builder when they're traveling alone; something they must do to prove they're successful.

I'm one of those convenient party girls who con males into thinking they're carefree devils. With their "values" it's easy: "If you spend enough," they figure, "you've got to be having fun." I see that they spend enough! This somehow also eases their consciences. "If you pay," they figure, "you aren't really being unfaithful, just 'male.'" And besides you have to keep up with Tom Jones who is no doubt wondering why the blazes YOU don't calm down and let him get a little rest.

The stupidity of married men has brought me many luxuries, including a three-quarter length mink coat and a high rise apartment. I shouldn't sneer at them, but if I didn't, I'd cry at the pathetic little well-heeled creatures who for all their posturing mainly want their Mamas. -ON CALL

P.S. AS you say, Helen, all married men aren't unfaithful - but if I were married, I'd see to it my husband didn't go to a convention alone!

Dear Helen:

So all married men aren't unfaithful? Maybe, but more and more Rover boys are taking off their wedding rings when they go out for a "night with the boys."

I am 23, unmarried, still hoping to find my Prince Charming, but the biggest questions my friends and I ASK IS, "What makes us think we can keep our men from cheating?"

These fellows frequent all the places we go. At the Friday night bar bashes - they're fun and just about the only places these days where singles can meet each other and not feel like cheap pick-ups - you have to hear third-degree a man. Some even have the nerve to say, "I love my wife, but oh you kid!" Most try to lie out of marriage.

Why don't these "husbands" stay home where they belong? I'm sure they could find better uses for their money. Why don't married women keep tighter hold on them? Why do married men assume that all single girls are desperate? The single fellows we meet at the Friday-bars know the rules and don't expect too much. That is basically how we can tell them apart. If a guy hands you a proposition in the first half hour - he's married! - HUSBANDS, GO HOME!

Dear HGH:

Along with the ID cards, maybe Friday-night bartenders should also check for marriage licenses, no? - H.

Dear Helen:

Get this! I was having an affair with my psychiatrist. Don't laugh. It happens. He called me to meet him at our certain motel, and when I got there he made a big scene. Not because he felt guilt about his wife. Not because of fear he'd be censured if friends found out. Oh no!

He was furious because I went to meet him barefooted. I outraged his sense of propriety! Know something? I no longer need my psychiatrist. -CURED!

Dear Cured:

Who would? - Especially his wife H - H.

Dear Helen:

Women who complain that all the married men they meet are unfaithful are bragging. Or hopeful. My husband kids along with this sort - they're in every office. But I know I can trust him, even in a harem - probably. - MINE.

Dear Helen:

I resent these dames who downgrade all married men because those they see in the places they hang out are on the make. Most husbands know an affair is too much bother and worry for what you gain from it. We might be tempted but we have too much to lose. THOROUGHLY MARRIED.

Glassboro Was Warm, Friendly

By LEE LINDER

GLASSBORO, N.J. (AP) - The warmth and friendliness of the crowds, hopeful that the name Glassboro might become a milestone in man's quest for peace, made this tree-lined town an ideal setting for a summit conference.

Without their impartial roars of approval, the Hollybush summit conference at Glassboro State College might not have had anything going for it at all. One sensed this air of hopefulness, from the beginning, in the way the hospitable townspeople - plus hundreds from neighboring communities - cheered both world leaders to find the way to peace.

President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin sensed it, too, in Glassboro.

In their folksy, almost chummy, climax to two days of discussions, Johnson said: "The chairman and I join in extending thanks to the governor and the college and the good people of Glassboro for the contributions they have made to make these good meetings possible."

Said Kosygin: "I would like to thank all the citizens of Glassboro, and the governor and the president of the college for having created such a good atmosphere for the talks we had here."

A crowd of several thousand, drenched to the skin as they stood outside Hollybush during a violent 20-minute summer storm, cheered both world leaders when they walked through wet grass to wave to them at the conclusion of the summit.

First there were shouts of, "We want Kosy!" followed by the steady chant of, "LEBI LEBI!"

There was one incident Sunday, quickly handled by police. A young man in the crowd, massed almost shoulder to shoulder in steamy, 90-degree weather sought to display a sign bearing the legend, "Kosygin and Hitler." He was jostled and pushed by many around him.

Now an affluent and successful business woman, she is again studying singing, hoping still to make it a serious career.

"Opera singers," said Miss Palmer, "have the hardest time finding a place to live."

"A singer finishes late at night, goes out or has friends in until 4 a.m. He needs eight hours sleep, gets up at noon, starts to practice, and then the neighbors complain."

"He must have high ceilings in his rehearsal studio, so new buildings are out."

In trying to find a duplex for handsome tenor Franco Corelli, Pat finally located a building that would do if a staircase were built inside the apartment to connect two floors.

"Franco's wife, Loretta, designed the staircase herself," said Miss Palmer. "And it turned out that it would cost $40,000 to build."

"Naturally, I told her the landlord wouldn't spend that kind of money."

"Not even for Franco, he won't!" asked Mrs. Corelli unbelievably.

Pat Palmer tries to make her business a personal service. If a woman is separated from her husband, for instance, and wants to immediately get rid of her apartment because she is depressed living there alone, Pat talks her into subletting it for a while so that emotional stress doesn't push her into making a wrong decision.

Pat is famous in her field. But she would still prefer to be a beginning opera singer than the owner of a successful real estate firm.

"Success as a singer would be more exciting to me than selling the Empire State Building," she claims.

ROCK HUDSON SECONDS

TONITE AT THE DIXIE "GOD'S LITTLE ACRE"

HELEN HENNESSY'S BOUTIQUE

NEW YORK - (NEA) - Elizabeth Taylor must feel free—not closed in. Jayne Mansfield wants something plushy and feminine. Sophia Loren needs a whole room just for her clothes.

And Pat Palmer, 32-year-old apartment huntress extraordinaire is the one they come to to solve their housing problems.

"I got Lauren Bacall the apartment she lived in before she moved to the Dakota," Pat said. "She needed an oversized apartment just for her clothes, too. She would literally order 100 pairs of shoes at a time."

Miss Palmer who has rented town houses in London, penthouses in Rome, flats in Paris, homes in Athens and even a palace or two in France got into the real estate business quite by accident.

"My one wish was to become an opera singer," she told me in her luxurious East Side New York office.

"My mother took me to New York to study at Juillard and then she became ill. That used up the money saved for my singing lessons."

"We were staying at the YWCA and I had to find an apartment."

So the ingenious Pat got herself a job in a real estate office, hoping to be right on the spot when the first apartment she could afford turned up. She liked the work and eventually took her broker's test and became a licensed broker herself.

How she became involved with celebrities was another accident. And the way her accidents turn out, she'd do well to be accident-prone.

She saw two little brownstones across the street from New York's famous Colony restaurant. One was empty. She decided it would be a fine place for an office and just rang the bell of the next door house to inquire about the vacant one.

The owner turned out to be Oleg Cassini's mother. And Mother Cassini took a fancy to young Pat and let her have her office. Gene Tierney and Gloria de Haven lived in the building, too.

"Gloria is so sweet," said Pat. "She told everyone about me. Shelley Winters came around, Joanne Woodward, Carol Baker, Gwen Verdon - just everyone." And so Pat Palmer became the official house hunter for the stars.

Television and Radio

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Sorry, fellow viewers, but our unflattering composite picture emerges like this:

Six or eight hours' solid television coverage of the United Nations, as during the recent middle east crisis, gives us the fidgets.

We - or a vocal lot of us - would rather be watching our favorite programs. By phone we deluge the station with yelps like, "Where is Bozo?" or "Give us Beaver!"

Across the country the mass-audience portrait was the same in interviews with ABC station executives assembled last week in annual meeting.

Said Ted Tostlebe, Des Moines:

"The mass of people don't know what they really want, but they know what they don't want. They're not stupid; they're selective."

"They don't want to sit for hours to be informed what's happening. Rather than solid Middle East coverage, say, they'd rather have 5 or 10 minutes every half hour."

Tom Waller, WLVA-TV, Lynchburg-Roanoke, Va.:

"They want to be informed, but they don't want to be bored."

Reeve R. Owen, WTVG, Chattanooga:

"Basically, a Western is always good in our area. Lawrence Welk and 'Peyton Place,' too. News does well, but you get all three networks running the U.N. for hours, and the phones start ringing."

"Housewives say they want the 'Newlywed game,' the 'Dating Game' and 'General Hospital.' Kids coming home from school want our children's program."

E. Berry Smith, WTVW, Evansville, said the U.N. interruption brought "hundreds of complaining calls."

Bill Sawyers, KJEO, Fresno:

"If wrestling is interrupted for the U.N., we really hear it from the viewers."

Don Perris, WEWS, Cleveland, reported "terrific protests."

An ABC vice president from New York, John O. Gilbert, said viewers are "just very human" but: "I think the public does need an upgrading in its programming. This Middle East thing could have meant Russia-and-America. Does that grab you where you live?"

"Whether people want to be informed or not, we'll inform them. They always can turn that box off."

Upsets in LL Change Standings

By RALPH ROUTON
Star Sports Writer

The standings were overturned as three upsets were scored in the final games of the second round-robin of Little League play at K Park last Friday night.

Upsurging Barry's Quick Sak carded the first surprise, throttling Midwest Dairy 7-5 in extra innings. David Key paced the Quick Sak attack with 3 hits in 3 trips to the plate.

Then lowly Lions Club plastered on Sheriff Department's second straight loss, whipping Griffin's boys 7-5. Winning pitcher was Paul Young who fired a two-hitter.

Finally Hope Auto upset Century Bible Class, smashing the CBC nine 11-0. The Hand Hboys, David Huddleston and Wade Harris, each socked a homer for Hope Auto.

This week the Little League will not play, with many of the boys gone to Boy Scout camp.

76 Olympics

By ROGER DOUGHTY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DENVER, Colo.—(NEA)—John A. Love, Republican governor of Colorado, is off and running with his 1976 campaign. That would seem to put Love, who bears a resemblance to actor William Holden, well out in front of LBJ—Robert Kennedy, George Romney or anyone else who might pop up during the next nine years.

Love, a 51-year-old former Navy pilot, makes no effort to conceal the fact that he's out to snow the people. "The more snow," he says, "the better."

Love isn't campaigning for the White House or a guest shot on the Johnny Carson show, but the 1976 Winter Olympics.

The last Winter Olympics were staged in Innsbruck, Austria, in 1964 (the Russians won) and the next Winter Olympics will take place in Grenoble, France, next year (it hardly seems sporting, but the French will probably win), so Gov. Love is doing his best to bring the games back to the United States.

They were last here in 1960 at California's Squaw Valley, but that doesn't count, the way Colorado looks at it.

Gov. Love is worried only about Maine, New Hampshire and New York at the

Cubs Sweep Twin Bill Over Astros

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
"Can Joey Niekro pitch?" yelled Randy Hundley.

"Yes, he can," bellowed Ron Santo.

"Can Ernie Banks hit?" shouted Dick Radatz.

"Yes, he can," answered Banks. "Let's play another one."

It went on and on. The surprising third-place Chicago Cubs were acting like a bunch of kids, having a ball after sweeping a doubleheader from Houston 4-1 and 8-0 Sunday.

It wasn't at all like a team that has not finished in first division since 1946.

The Cubs have blown their balloon so big, they've moved within four games of first place in the National League after front-running St. Louis lost a twinbill to Philadelphia 6-4 and 10-4.

Chicago also pulled within 1½ games of second-place Cincinnati as Pittsburgh beat the Reds 5-4.

Clete Boyer of Atlanta has been having a good time, too. His hot bat boosted the Braves to a 4-2 victory over the New York Mets.

In the other National League game, Los Angeles defeated San Francisco 2-1 on Len Gabrielson's run-scoring pinch hit single in the ninth inning.

In the American League, Minnesota topped the Chicago White Sox 3-1, the New York Yankees nipped Detroit 3-2, Boston hammered Cleveland 8-3, Baltimore slugged Washington 8-3 and California edged Kansas City 4-3.

Some 31,000 fans, the largest Cub home crowd in two years, whooped it up all day and gave the 36-year-old Banks a standing ovation after each of his pair of two-run homers in the second game he was not supposed to play.

"If it had been a hot day, I wouldn't have played him," said Manager Leo Durocher after his team ran its winning streak to six, longest in four years.

Former relievers Bill Hands and Niekro, who probably would not have been starting at all if Ken Holtzman had not been called into the Army, pitched their first complete games in the major leagues.

Hands yielded only five hits in the opener after failing 27 times in two years to go the distance. Niekro, a rookie making his fifth start, set the Astros down on three singles in the second game.

Don Lock drove the nail into the Cardinals, knocking in six runs with six hits, including two two-run homers. His first clout capped a three-run first inning in the first game for a 5-2 lead. His second gave Philadelphia 2-0 lead in the nightcap, and the Phils used four of five St. Louis errors to add six unearned runs.

Matty Alou sliced two singles and a home run and Manny Jimenez added a homer as the Pirates dealt the Reds their sixth loss in eight starts and left them 2½ games behind St. Louis.

Boyer, who never drove in more than 68 runs in a season in the majors, knocked in all Atlanta's runs with two singles and a double, raising his RBI total to 46, only one less than teammate Hank Aaron and seven off the league lead.

The Braves also got help from another Niekro, Joe's brother Phil, who pitched three shutout innings to save the victory for Pat Jarvis.

Gabrielson's two-out hit off Frank breaking a 1-1 tie, came after Willie Davis singled and took second on an infield out, and gave Don Drysdale a seven-hit triumph.

First Grand Slam Just a Bad Hop

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer
Rick Reichardt will remember his first grand slam homer as the one that didn't reach the seats.

The Kansas City Athletics will write it off as just another bad hop.

But California's George Brunet will count it as one of the few good bounces he's had all year.

Reichardt's initial bases-loaded homer in the majors—an inside-the-park shot that caromed crazily past right fielder Mike Hersherberger in the first inning—carried Brunet and the Angels past the A's 4-3 Sunday.

The victory was only the fourth in 15 decisions for Brunet, a hard-luck southpaw who recently lost nine in a row while the Angels scored a total of 18 runs for him.

In other American League games, Minnesota topped the first place Chicago White Sox 3-1, Baltimore drubbed Washington 8-3, the New York Yankees shaded Detroit 3-2 and Boston whipped Cleveland 8-3.

The Chicago Cubs swept a doubleheader from Houston 4-1 and 8-0, Philadelphia beat St. Louis 6-4 and 10-4, Atlanta downed the New York Mets 4-2, Pittsburgh edged Cincinnati 5-4 and Los Angeles clipped San Francisco 2-1 in National League play.

Jim Fregosi beat out an infield hit with two out in the first inning and KC starter John "Blue Moon" Odom walked Don Mincher and Jimmie Hall, filling the bases, before Reichardt's drive off the right field fence skipped away from Hersherberger.

Reichardt, a speedster despite his 215-pound bulk, chased Fregosi, Mincher and Hall across the plate for his ninth homer of the season.

Brunet gave up a run in the Athletics' first, then nursed the 4-1 margin until the eighth, when relief ace Minnie Rojas was called on to halt a two-run rally. Rojas retired the A's in order in the ninth, preserving the Angels' 15th victory in their last 20 games.

The Twins rallied for three runs with two out in the eighth, Earl Battey's two-run pinch tripe keying the burst, and gave unbeaten Jim Merritt his fifth victory. Merritt allowed only three hits—including a run-scoring single by Don Buford in the third—before being lifted for a hitter during the winning rally.

Singles by Zoilo Versalles and Frank Kostro preceded Battey's triple off loser Tommy Junn and pinch runner Dave Boswell scored the third Minnesota run on Cesar Tovar's infield hit.

Baltimore's Robinson boys, Frank and Brooks, stroked three hits apiece and scored five runs between them as the Orioles buried Washington under a 15-hit barrage.

Boog Powell, Curt Blefary and Vic Roznovsky each drove in a pair of runs, and rookie Tom Phoebus registered his sixth victory with relief help from Moe Drabowsky.

Tom Tresh's two-run single in the fourth inning, a run-scoring single by Mickey Mantle in the fifth and a triple play lifted the Yankees past Detroit, completing a New York sweep of the three-game series.

Singles by Don Wert and Ray Oyler got winner Mel Stottlemyre into a fifth inning jam before second baseman Horace Clarke gloved Jerry Lumpe's

Best First Baseman — In Softball

By ROGER DOUGHTY

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

STRATFORD, Conn. — (NEA)—"A lot of people will tell you," nodded the fluent fan in the weather-worn baseball cap, "that George Adam is the finest first baseman ever to step on the bag. And they're right."

Madness? Heresy? Not really. Before the defenders of Lou Gehrig, Hal Chase and even Mickey Mantle storm Stratford to protest, let it be known that Adam marches to the beat of a different drum. George's game is softball.

"An amateur sport trying to compete on a professional level," he calls it, and the eight-time member of the World All-Star team and 11-year veteran (and now manager) with Raybestos Cardinals of the Atlantic Seaboard League bears unique qualifications to judge a sport that carries an amateur status similar to that of tennis.

Softball has come a long way since its beginning just before the turn of the century. An estimated 15 million people actively participate in the sport, mostly in slow-pitch leagues in small communities.

Stratford, which won the championship of the Seaboard circuit last year, rates with Providence, Clearwater, Fla., and Aurora, Ill., in the top echelon of the softball world.

When the Cardinals play Providence, the team that beat them in the regional playoff last year, a crowd of 9,000 isn't unusual while the Clearwater Bombers, winners of the World Tournament last year, are always a top draw.

There are those who feel that softball, good old American game that it is, could become the next major sport in the country. It's a faster, more lively version of baseball and people do understand it while soccer takes some getting used to. Adam, for one, has hopes but doesn't think softball will make it.

"For one thing," he says, "the Amateur Softball Association, which runs most of the action, spends too much time fooling around with the slow pitch leagues. The ASA makes its money through registration and there are so many people playing in the slow-pitch leagues that that's where all the money comes from."

"The game," says the gregarious George, "is hurting. Kids don't play it because they'd rather play baseball and since there isn't anything called pro softball, you can't blame them. And a lot of people condemn the sport without ever having seen it played properly. When they find out what it's all about, they wonder where the game has been all their lives."

Adam, a native of Detroit who makes a living as sales manager for the Southern New England Telephone Co. when he isn't playing first or the outfield for the Cards,

Between you'n'me

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. — (NEA) — If the legions who follow Arnold Palmer on the golf course are an army, then they must have been trained by Nasser. They are undisciplined, disorganized and downright ignorant of tactical appreciation for golf. They don't even have sense enough to switch from a losing cause.

More than 20,000 hackers defied logic at the finale of the United States Open at Baltusrol with blind allegiance to the cause of Palmer—when at the same time, in joined battle, Jack Nicklaus was producing one of the memorable rounds in golf history.

While stolid Jack assaulted the Baltusrol course with 65 magnificently controlled strokes over the final 18 holes to break Ben Hogan's scoring record for the Open, Arnie's fans raucously cheered Palmer chip shots that kicked dead 50 feet from the cup.

The contest in reception to both golfers was vivid because they played head-to-head in one of those rare golf pairings where the winner had to become the Open champ. Arnie would hook a drive into the rough, then extricate himself with a four-wood to the apron of the green, and the legions would yell exuberantly, "Atta boy, Arnie. Go get 'em . . . you can still do it." They waved banners and jostled for positions.

Jack would boom his tee shots on the same hole dead down the middle of the fairway, loft an 8-iron so casually that the ball would drop dead 12 feet from the cup, in excellent birdie range, and there would be a flip of polite applause that died the moment they saw Arnie coming over the ridge.

Maybe the partisanship was understandable in the third round on Saturday when they finished in a dead heat, or in the early moments of the final afternoon, when it was anybody's $30,000 (prize for winning the Open). But how do you figure it on the 15th hole when Nicklaus already has built up a five-stroke lead and only an act of God, or the USGA, can deprive him from a second Open—made especially poignant by the fact that he has had, for him, a miserable year in which he failed to survive the halfway cut at the Masters?

Fortunately for Jack Nicklaus' peace of mind, he didn't try to figure it.

"Any time you play with Arnie," he rationalized, "you expect it. You get used to it. And I am used to it. It becomes part of the game. I felt I had an awful lot of people out there watching me, too."

But there's a schism between the watchers and the slobbering idolaters. Arnie is a virile, image-sitting hero who rouses emotions by the way he flips a cigarette on the green or contorts his face over a missed putt. The people identify with him. You couldn't miss this, either, with his closing 69 for second place in the Open.

Jack, ten years younger at 27, is outwardly phlegmatic on the course, a little dumpy in the seat, and all business. He proved that on the 72nd hole. A year ago, Palmer lost his perspective on the last nine holes of the Open when he concentrated on beating Hogan's scoring record of 276 and instead blew a six-stroke lead over eventual winner Billy Casper. Nicklaus came to the 72nd hole this year leaving a birdie to break Hogan's mark, and he ignored it. On the 542-yard 18th, he pulled a 1-iron from his bag on the tee.

"I knew I felt like an idiot, pulling out a 1-iron," he mused. "But I also knew that if I got a seven on the hole and Arnie got a three, he could still tie me. I was thinking about winning the tournament."

Of course, with his enormous hitting strength, he converted the iron shot into the birdie that won the Open title and set the scoring mark and produced his seventh major championship—he has won three Masters, two Opens, the PGA and the British Open. He is in his sixth year as a pro. Palmer, who also holds seven major crowns, is in his 12th year.

Like that old philosopher Liberace, Nicklaus must cry all the way to the bank.

thinks a major professional league, backed with plenty of money and television exposure, might make it big some day but that old evil, money, always gets in the way.

"There aren't enough really good teams to go around," says Adam, "with a couple of top teams in the East, a couple more in the Midwest and a few in Florida. Nobody takes the time or spends the money to develop the game into what it might be, so it just stagnates. Basically it's still a smaller town sport."

But, with soccer pulling only 3,000 to Yankee Stadium on a brilliantly sunny Sunday recently, the men who have money sunk in soccer might see softball as a sport with a future. At worst, most of the players speak English. 6-12-67

Says Daughter of Kosygin Is Charming

By JOHN SHEPPARD
ISLAND BEACH STATE PARK, N.J. (AP) — The New Jersey governor's wife says the 38-year-old daughter of Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin is a "warm, lovely girl—the kind any mother would be proud of."

"She's so charming," Mrs. Richard J. Hughes said Sunday after entertaining Kosygin's daughter, Ludmilla A. Gvishliani, for more than three hours. Other guests at what Mrs. Hughes called "a seaside summit" were Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson and her daughter Lyn-da Bird.

All spent the afternoon at the Hughes' 10-room summer home on the edge of the Atlantic Ocean while President Johnson and Kosygin discussed world problems 65 miles away at Glassboro, N.J.

A helicopter brought the ladies from Glassboro, to a windswept, 10-mile-long peninsula. Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Hughes pointed out sights in south Jersey during the 45-minute trip.

Mrs. Gvishliani saw vegetable and fruit farms, cranberry bogs, beaches filled with bathers, the Atlantic City boardwalk and the convention hall where Johnson was nominated by the Democrats in 1964.

The copter landed at a Coast Guard station one-half mile from the Hughes' seaside home. A three-car motorcade took the ladies to the 1 1/2-story gray cedar shingle home over a traffic-free highway.

Security forces closed the 2,600-acre state park to incoming traffic during the visit.

At a luncheon prepared by the governor's cook and three neighbor women, the ladies dined on chicken and wild rice, a tossed salad with oil and vinegar dressing and white wine.

For dessert, they had fresh New Jersey strawberries with cream.

After lunch, Mrs. Hughes showed Mrs. Gvishliani her house.

"She enjoyed the kitchen, especially the combination freezer-refrigerator," said Mrs. Hughes. "She also liked the washer and dryer, the dishwasher and the children's playroom."

Mrs. Hughes said she thought Mrs. Gvishliani was "really thrilled over seeing how an American family lived."

Before going for a walk on the beach, Mrs. Johnson gave Mrs. Gvishliani a small gold wristwatch, a mirror made in New England in 1790 and two autographed books, "Washington, Magnificent Capital" and "The Living White House."

She also received a book on art from Lynda Bird and a china bowl from Mrs. Hughes.

Oswald: "The almost universal use of the 4-3-2-1 point count means that many hands will be bid just the same way by a couple of students who have taken just one or two lessons as by the greatest two players in the world."

Jim: "South has a standard 16 point no-trump. Expert North will count his 22 points; shake his head a couple of times and then bid the grand slam. Beginner North may miscount, otherwise he will get to 22 also, add that to 16 to produce 38 and also bid the grand slam, because he would have learned that 37 is the magic number for a grand slam."

Oswald: "Expert South will look over the dummy and see that there are only 12 top tricks and that he will have to do something about the queen of clubs if he wants to make his grand slam. Then expert South will proceed to run off four hearts, four diamonds and two spades in order to get some idea of where the queen of clubs will be found. He will be able to discard one club from each hand in the process."

Jim: "At this point all expert South's worries will be over. He will have seen West show out on the second lead of each red suit and can count East for 10 red cards. When East follows to the second spade he will have counted 12 of his cards. He will know that East cannot have more than one club so he will cash his king of clubs and finesse against West's queen for the 13th trick."

Oswald: "This hand experts would call a laydown because when they get around to the crucial play they have transformed a probability into a certainty."

Jim: "Beginner South might go down. Maybe his two lessons did not include one on finessing. Thus he would wind up by playing the ace and king of clubs and be forced to concede the last trick."

Oswald: "Some average players would lose the hand also. They would not bother to count the East-West distribution and would wind up misguessing the club situation."

Proposed Changes in Welfare

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Welfare Board was to consider today a proposal under which the Welfare Department would treat as excess property the homes of welfare clients confined more than six months in nursing homes.

The proposal by Welfare Commissioner Len Blaylock apparently would mean that the state could gain possession of clients' homes or reduce their welfare grants because they own homes.

Disclosure of the proposal was made after the department prepared the agenda for the board meeting this afternoon. Blaylock attributed the leak to members of the board.

Blaylock said his proposal was an economy move. He said it would allow the department to benefit from property owned by welfare clients who can be regarded as permanent nursing home residents.

"Why should a son or daughter or someone else who hasn't contributed to the recipient come in and benefit from the property?" he asked. "The taxpayers should be considered in this."

It also was learned that the board's agenda included several other proposals by Blaylock to conserve welfare funds. He wants the board to consider eliminating $3 of the bonus allowance to welfare recipients. He also proposes that the state Assessment Co-ordination Division appraise property owned by welfare recipients to make sure they don't own property that would disqualify them from receiving grants.

County welfare directors now make the appraisals.

Blaylock, who has been at loggerheads with the board, said he had learned that board member Bill Calhoun of Dermott had arranged a private meeting of most board members this morning at Little Rock.

THE WELL CHILD Take Safety Precautions Handling an Air Rifle

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

At one time or another, most boys are fascinated with guns and the first gun most boys get is a BB gun or air rifle. If your boy gets one of these, you should make sure he learns to handle it properly. Teach him to treat it as he would a cartridge rifle, so that he will develop good gun-handling habits from the start.

He should never point it at anyone or at any other object he doesn't intend to shoot. Although a stray BB shot probably never killed anyone, it has blinded many an eye. Your son should always make sure the gun barrel and action are clean and free of obstructions. The muzzle should be pointed in a safe direction at all times—down range during target practice.

Teach your son never to place his finger on the trigger until he is ready to shoot. If you set up a target range in the basement, be sure he sweeps up all the BB shot after each session, because stepping on them can cause a fall.

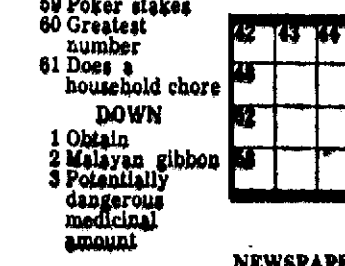

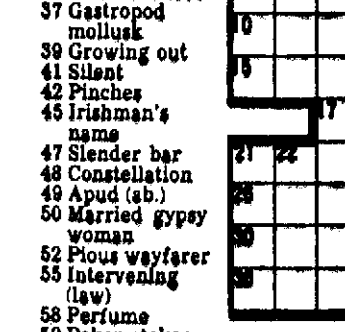

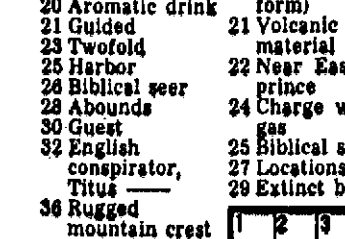

Guns should be unloaded when not in use. When cocking the gun, the muzzle should always be held upward so the shot will be properly fed into the tube. Always complete a full stroke when cocking to prevent double firing of BBs. When proper habits become second nature to your son, you will have eliminated one source of worry.

Berkey Color Separator's Story Told to State Press Convention

Invention Is Major One, Says Editor

A Norwegian invention has revolutionized the toughest job in the graphic arts and made it possible and profitable for community newspapers to publish full-color photographs, Alex. H. Washburn, editor and publisher of Hope Star, told the annual summer convention of the Arkansas Press Association in Hot Springs' Arlington Hotel Saturday.

Washburn was invited to speak on process color printing and his experience with the Berkey color separator, of which his newspaper bought the second machine purchased by an American paper, and the first of the larger 8x10 model. Currently the manufacturer, Berkey Technical Corp. of New York City, is featuring in its national advertising in graphic arts magazines the Chicago Tribune and Hope (Ark.) Star as using identical Berkey machines to reproduce four-color photographs.

"I bought the machine on a gamble," Washburn said, "confident that if Berkey Photo made it the thing would work. We already had several thousand dollars' worth of other Berkey products, and all of them were tops."

"Our order was placed last November, the machine was delivered in December, and it was calibrated and put into production in our shop this January. The man who did this was none other than the co-inventor himself, Arve Jensen of Norway, now products manager for Berkey Technical Corp., New York, where the machine is manufactured."

MOMENT OF TRUTH

"Mr. Jensen personally turned out our first two four-color productions, published January 28 and February 15; and Eastman Kodak Co. helped us with the third production, in March. But you don't learn much about a machine while the factory and other outside men are with you. It's after they leave and you face the monster alone—the Berkey has 32 buttons and switches, all operated in absolute darkness—it's then that you meet the moment of truth."

"On April 28 we published the first pictures for which I made the separation negatives alone on the Berkey machine—two Ektachromes of the Hot Springs horse races."

"I brought to this convention our sixth home-color production—the layout on the Southwest Arkansas Poultry Festival, published June 23—so you might say that by this time we have the Berkey operation in hand... and it required only 60 days. "Berkey claims that its color separator is automatic. And it is. Berkey claims that anyone can learn to run it. And that's true."

MAJOR BREAK-THROUGH

"Arve Jensen's invention is one of the great 'break-throughs' in the history of printing. I can think of four in my lifetime: "1. The development of automatic typesetting by perforated tape, pioneered by Walter Morye, Teletype and Teletypesetter Corporations and Fairchild Graphic Equipment. Arkansas had a major hand in this development, setting up the first multi-city automatic telegraph circuit in America—a system now in universal use. "2. The development of the electronic engraving machine by Fairchild, which made black-and-white pictures as plentiful in small-town newspapers as type is.

ALEX. H. WASHBURN, editor and publisher of Hope Star, addressing Arkansas Press Association summer convention at Hot Springs Saturday.

"3. The invention in the Dallas-Fort Worth area in the 1950's of the high-speed rotary offset press, which triggered the revolutionary switch of newspapers from letterpress to offset. Again Arkansas is in the advance guard of progress, with 5 of her 30 dailies already converted and more to come this year."

"4. And now the automatic Berkey color separator, of which Arkansas took the second newspaper machine in the nation."

EXPERTS UNNEEDED

Washburn pointed out that while he was running the Berkey machine, and shortly his shopmen would be running it also, neither he nor his staff could qualify as process color experts. "That," he said, "is exactly what makes the Berkey separator so wonderful. It makes an expert out of an ordinary guy."

The Hope man pointed out that whatever photographic skill had been developed in his plant it was home-grown without any formal technical training, and the same was true of practically all small-town newspapers. Washburn said he had been a darkroom technician for 30 years and simply passed what he knew to the staff when the newspaper converted to offset Dec. 29, 1965. "Now we have the same procedure upcoming with the Berkey machine," he continued—"and if we can get away with process color so can any newspaper that has a darkroom and develops its own photographs."

Washburn was introduced by R. W. Chowning, general manager of the Magnolia (Ark.) Banner-News.

The Hope publisher was accompanied to the state convention by three of his newspaper's department heads: Billy Dan Jones, mechanical superintendent and head pressman; Donal Parker, advertising manager, and Mrs. Parker; and C.M. Rogers, Jr., circulation manager, and Mrs. Rogers.

Berkey Technical Corp. had in attendance its Midwest manager, Howard Warner of Chicago; and Fairchild Graphic Equipment was represented by Gene Manasco of its press division in New York.

2-Million Loan Expands REA System

An REA loan for $1,870,000 has been approved for the Southwest Arkansas Electric Cooperative, Inc., of Texarkana, to expand its transmission and distribution lines and add new customers throughout southwest Arkansas, the office of Congressman John Paul Hammond telephoned the Star from Washington, D.C., this morning.

What the loan will mean for the southwest Arkansas cooperative is this: 140 miles of new distribution lines

1,300 new consumers 21 miles of 69-kilovolt transmission lines

A 5,000 KVA transmission substation at Nashville

Two new distribution substations, at Ashdown and Foreman with a combined capacity of 8,750 KVA.

Land Mines Kill 4 Italian Soldiers

BOLZANO, Italy (AP) — Land mines killed four Italian soldiers Sunday in the most serious terrorist incident yet in the Alto Adige—South Tyrol—region which German-speaking extremists want Italy to return to Austria.

A soldier on patrol was injured fatally when he stepped on an antipersonnel mine a few yards inside the border with Austria. A unit searching the area for mines touched off another explosion a few hours later which killed three soldiers.

Italy annexed the Alto Adige from Austria after World War I. For more than a decade it has been troubled by bombings of monuments, rail lines and power lines.

Arkansas Brings Big Delegation

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mack Koonitz of Pine Bluff, Ark., a candidate for national vice president of the national Junior Chamber of Commerce, brought 50 Arkansas Jaycees to the organization's convention here Sunday to support him in Thursday's election.

Constitution Revision Study Made

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — The state Constitutional Revision Study Commission rejected proposals Saturday for lowering the voting age in Arkansas and for a unicameral, or one-house, legislature.

The meeting was the first time the entire commission had reviewed the work of any of its committees.

The commission did not make any recommendations concerning the delicate issues of parliamentary betting on horse races at Hot Springs, the so-called Right to Work law and the 10-per cent ceiling on interest rates.

The commission did recommend several legislative changes, including limited annual legislative sessions instead of biennial sessions.

The commission also recommended that the lieutenant governor's duties not include presiding over the Senate.

The commission emphasized that it could reverse itself on recommendations after further consideration.

It recommended: —That atheists be allowed to hold state office.

—That the legislature be permitted to pass appropriations bills and tax increases with a simple majority instead of the two-thirds vote required now.

—That the provisions against search and seizure include wiretapping and other forms of "interception."

—That the Interposition Amendment adopted just prior to the Little Rock school desegregation crisis be left out of the Constitution.

—That the legislature be given the authority to call itself into special session.

—That there be no limit on the number of terms served by senators and representatives.

—That the Constitution include present provisions forbidding treason against the state.

—That persons who move to Arkansas 20 days before a national election be permitted to vote in that election.

Wallace Says Public Tired of Government

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama told the Arkansas Press Association Saturday he will run for president in 1968 if the two major political parties do not promise to return the government to the people.

Wallace said he had found everywhere that people were weary of big government.

"People are tired of that, and they're going to put an end to it," Wallace said.

Wallace, whose wife is now governor of Alabama, upbraided the courts, liberals, intellectuals and the press during his speech, which was interrupted several times by applause from the crowd of about 500 persons.

He said the federal government was dominating local and personal affairs.

"They don't dare nationalize your home or your industry, they just want to control it," he said.

He said one federal judge had more power than the governors of all 50 states.

"There is no restraint on the courts, except self restraint, and they haven't exercised it," he said.

"We in Alabama are tired of the intellectual, liberal element which is always talking about the people," he said. "These liberals who say, 'Let the people speak,' do not trust the people to run their own affairs, so they send down guidelines."

Law and order have broken down, he said, because the "federal courts have turned the law over to anarchy."

"If you get molested on a city street, he's out of jail before you're out of the hospital," Wallace said. "If I were the president, I would tell the people to go out and enforce the law."

Former Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas introduced Wallace.

Mother of Convict Tells of Threats

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The mother of Tucker Prison Farm inmate Alfred Sturgeon, 21, who alleged in a federal District Court petition that his life was in danger and asked the court to protect him, said Sunday that "four or five" convicts were planning to kill him.

Mrs. Bill Pat Sturgeon, 47, of Enola (Faulkner County), said that while visiting her son at the prison Sunday another inmate told her about the plan, but refused to give her his name because he was afraid "they" would "get" him, too.

Mrs. Sturgeon said the inmate told her "they" were the same convicts who had beaten Sturgeon Tuesday night. She said that both the inmate and her son had told her the beating was done with the handles of mops and brooms.

Sturgeon, who received medical treatment after the beating, has been placed in an isolated cell for his protection.

"He said as long as he is in where he is, he's okay," Mrs. Sturgeon said, "but that if they put him back where he was, it was the end—his life would be short then."

Thomas O. Murton, assistant state prison superintendent in charge of Tucker, said Saturday that six prisoners had been separated from the other prison inmates for disciplinary action pending the outcome of an investigation of the beating.

Murton said Sturgeon and three others were beaten in non-related incidents Tuesday night.

James E. Shock, 39, of Enola, who listed himself as "attorney in fact" on Sturgeon's petition, said Saturday night that he had received a "signal" from Sturgeon indicating that the prisoner was in trouble.

He said Sturgeon's parents received a letter from their son that morning with the corner torn from it. That was the signal, Shock said.

Diminishing Gains Yielded in Air War

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some top U. S. officials are beginning to think the air war against North Vietnam is yielding diminishing gains while toughened ground defenses are raising the price in U. S. warplanes. Certain of them believe it might be a good idea to limit the bombing essentially to the supply routes running south through the narrow neck of North Vietnam and to cut down strikes against heavily defended industrial-type targets in the Hanoi and Haiphong areas.

But other authorities argue that to do so would result in swelling the volume of supplies and equipment to Communist forces in South Vietnam.

Those holding this general view say the Communists have been replacing many more anti-aircraft guns in the 150-mile long North Vietnamese panhandle, and that concentrating attacks there would not likely reduce the toll of U. S. planes.

Moreover, they contend that the movement of material should be interdicted not only at the lower end of the funnel but at the top where it enters the infiltration pipeline.

Officials inclined toward a slowdown in the air war are not all civilians. Some military men also have doubts about the effectiveness of the bombing.

And those favor at least continuing the present level of air strikes — and possibly an intensification — are not all military.

It is known, however, that the Joint Chiefs of Staff unanimously and vigorously oppose any easing off of the air attacks on Communist military targets in North Vietnam.

The Air Force and Navy were authorized last Feb. 22 to start hitting what one military source called "more lucrative targets" of an industrial and economic nature.

Now there are not many major targets left untouched. Yet the North Vietnamese continue to push their war effort in South Vietnam without any apparent letup.

Many bombed facilities have been rebuilt or put back in shape for at least limited use. So U. S. raiders make repeated returns to hit them again.

North Vietnam's biggest iron and steel complex, the Thai Nguyen steel mill 38 miles north of Hanoi, is reported to be completely out of production. But it took at least 10 raids to achieve this.

One of three major MIG jet fields has been bombed and strafed at least nine times. But military officers do not claim that the Kep base, 37 miles northeast of Hanoi, is out of action. They have seen too many examples of North Vietnamese ability to make quick repairs.

The most important targets still untouched are Haiphong harbor and three MIG fields in the Hanoi-Haiphong area.

It is U. S. policy to spare Haiphong harbor and its approaches from attack for fear that raids might force the Soviet Union into a confrontation with the United States.

The military chiefs long have urged closing Haiphong, through which an estimated two-thirds of North Vietnam's military and civilian imports are channeled, much of it in Soviet ships.

Festivities to Approve New Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI opened a week of ceremony and festivity today creating 27 new cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church. Four are Americans.

The Pope met in secret consistory with 35 members of the Sacred College of Cardinals for them to confirm his 27 nominees to their ranks. The meeting lasted 23 minutes. The confirmation was automatic.

Wednesday, at a semipublic consistory, the Pope will present the red biretta — the three-ridged pillbox hat — to 24 of the new cardinals. Thursday, they will join him in celebrating Mass in St. Peter's Square, a public ceremony being held outdoors for the first time so that more people may attend.

The other three new cardinals are the papal nuncios, or ambassadors, to Catholic Spain, Portugal and Italy. Because of the Church's special position in those countries and their concordats with the Vatican, the three nuncios will get their red hats from the chiefs of state.

The consistory increased membership in the College of Cardinals to 118, its largest in history. U. S. membership is also its largest at eight.

The new U. S. cardinals are Archbishop John P. Cody of Chicago, John J. Krol of Philadelphia and Patrick A. O'Boyle of Washington, D.C., and Msgr. Francis J. Brennan, a native of Shenandoah, Pa., who has been dean of the Roman Rota, the Church's highest appeals court in marriage matters and Church punishments.

The consistory also gave the Church the widest international representation ever in the council of the Pope's highest advisers. The College of Cardinals now represents 43 countries, two more than before.

Summer Notes Good Streets Up to the Voters

You know it's Summer down South when you go out to do some yard work and your dog quits you at the exact spot where comfortable shade ends and hot sunlight begins.

The average dog has the curiosity of a cat and the determination of a coal-miner. The other day, having bought an over-size lawnmower, I had to tear out the doorway of the garage storage-room in order to get the machine under cover. This of course left everything in the storage room exposed to any investigator—and a dog has the nose of an FBI agent.

I began to find old croquet mallets and balls all over the backyard, besides odds and ends of lumber, and pieces of discarded garden hose. But the ultimate was this: Somewhere in the mess there had been a paper sack of charcoal. Apparently charcoal has the same attraction for a dog that catnip has for a cat—but your ignorant editor didn't wake up to the fact until the dog got into the house. Now he's strictly a yard-dog. . . the Southern distributor of barbecuing charcoal.

As you know, the City of Hope is checking it up to the voters whether they want good streets or not.

In September there will be a referendum over a 5-mill property tax as part of the plan to finance $765,000 worth of new street paving. The additional property tax is expected to produce $275,000. The Water & Light Plant has pledged another $275,000. A proposed $5 automobile tax will raise $125,000; and $90,000 will be made available from parking meter funds. This is the financial picture, and it is expected to produce city-wide new paving, and curbs and gutters on eight streets and all primary thoroughfares.

The plan adheres to The Star's philosophy that automobile-owners should share the cost with property owners; the city should make a substantial contribution, which it has; and the federal government should be excluded, and that has been done too.

The Star will back the city paving plan in its entirety come the September referendum's voting day, and we urge that you give it your earnest thought and support in the months to come.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin left the United States for Cuba today after an historic nine-day stay in this country during which he met with President Johnson and pleaded the Arab cause before the United Nations General Assembly.

The Russian's big turboprop aircraft, Ilyushin 18, lifted off a runway at Kennedy Airport at 12:07 p.m. and turned south toward Cuba on a flight expected to take just over four hours.

45 Named to Gov. Council

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller appointed 45 persons, including 19 Negroes, to a Governor's Council on Human Resources Saturday and indicated that one of the group's major concerns would be the proposed technical and industrial training centers in which he has expressed an interest.

The group includes representatives of business, both major political parties, the clergy, civic action groups and the news media. It will study the state's economic and human resources.

Petitions for Junior College

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Petitions for an election on the financing of a proposed community junior college here will be presented to Secretary of State Kelly Bryant Tuesday.

Sponsors of the proposed school said Saturday that the petitions contained more than the necessary 1,700 signatures. A five-mill property tax would be necessary to finance construction and operation of the college.

An election on the tax has been scheduled tentatively for Aug. 8.

LBJ, Kosygin Talked Twice But Neither Changed Their Stands

By LEWIS GULICK
GLASSBORO, N.J. (AP) — President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin marched up to the summit and down again without shifting their postures on issues deeply dividing the world's greatest powers.

This was not unexpected, but was the exercise worthwhile? From the U.S. standpoint, the answer is probably a qualified yes. A more definite verdict can only come with time.

On the plus side is the face-to-face familiarity with the other man and his views that each leader gained in the 10 hours of talks, much of this in private sessions with only interpreters present. The two had never met before.

Another plus can be counted in their orders to Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to negotiate on some of the political problems which the chiefs did not unravel at Glassboro. The summit push to keep diplomatic contacts alive between Washington and Moscow, it is reasoned, can eventually lead toward solutions of some of the deeply imbedded difficulties between them.

President Johnson and Premier Kosygin apparently made clear to each other and to a concerned world that they recognize the awesome responsibilities of the superpowers in

Treasury Awaits Debt Increase

The Senate faces a midnight Friday deadline for action if it is to keep the debt from suddenly being far higher than allowed by law. Favorable action with time to spare is expected, however.

avoiding a nuclear holocaust. But Kosygin, in his stern words at his U.N. news conference Sunday night, quickly stripped away any euphoria that may have sprung from the length of his two-stage parley with the President.

Fresh from the Glassboro, N.J., meeting Kosygin said publicly a sizeable chunk of what he told Johnson privately in the Hollybush library—that the route to Middle East peace lies through a pullback of Israeli troops and that the road to peace in Vietnam lies through withdrawal of the Americans.

Kosygin's tough line on Vietnam struck particularly hard, because he listed what he termed an end to U.S. aggression there as the No. 1 step needed to improve U.S.-Soviet relations.

Only in the disarmament field, long a feature of U.S.-Soviet statements when agreement is sparse on other issues, was there some ring of optimism from on high.

Rusk and Gromyko are now expected to move somewhat faster in the lengthy effort for a Washington-Moscow draft of a treaty to curb the spread of nuclear weapons. They want to put agreed wording before the 17-nation Disarmament Conference soon.

U.S. and Soviet diplomats will still have plenty of problems to work on after that.

UN Assembly Continues Long Debate

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin prepared to leave the United States today as the U.N. General Assembly debate on the Middle East ground on.

Albania, Communist China's voice at the United Nations, was expected to attack Kosygin for his summit talks with President Johnson.

Kosygin planned to leave Kennedy Airport about noon. It was not known what stops he would make on his way back to Moscow, but his plane crew asked the airport for flight information on both Havana and Gander, Nfld.

The Soviet premier arrived in New York June 17 on his first visit to the United States. He has been attending the emergency session of the U.N. General Assembly, sightseeing in New York City and Niagara Falls, and talking with President Johnson in Glassboro, N.J.

The Soviet leader made plain at an 80-minute news conference Sunday night that his 10 hours of talks with Johnson had not shifted his public stand on the Arab-Israeli conflict one iota.

He argued once more for the resolution he introduced a week ago to condemn "Israel's aggressive acts" and demand her withdrawal from "territory" in Egypt, Jordan and Syria occupied in the June 5-10 war. He said delay in the withdrawal "would only enhance the risks of war breaking out again."

In the first week of the assembly session, he said, "the results have been positive" in that "the majority of speakers have condemned the aggression of Israel and called for the withdrawal of troops behind the armistice line."

Lake Fees for Floating Facilities

Individuals and organizations having boat mooring facilities, ski-jump floats, duck blinds, swimming or diving platforms, rafts and similar installations on Corps of Engineers reservoirs will be required to pay a fee for their effective January 1 next year, the Corps' Tulsa District Office has announced.

Heretofore, owners have been issued permits for private boat-houses and similar facilities on Corps of Engineers lakes without charge. Heavy use of the reservoirs by the public for recreation purposes has increased the cost of administering and maintaining surveillance over such facilities and made the new fees necessary, Otis K. Higginbotham, Resident Engineer at Millwood said.

Mr. Higginbotham said the new nation-wide policy places a charge of $10 per annum for the first 200 square feet of space occupied plus 7 1/2 cents a year for each additional square foot.

The Resident Engineer emphasized that the policy does not apply to boats, but does affect boat-houses, buoys, docks or piers to which boats are moored. It is not applicable to mooring facilities located in yacht club or concession areas, whose operators pay charges under lease or concession contracts.

The change conforms with an Act of Congress which specified that Federal agencies establish fair and equitable fees and charges for privileges granted.

Permits may be obtained from the Millwood Resident Office and may be granted for a period of up to five years. Present permittees will be required to obtain a new permit prior to January 1, 1968. Owners of existing facilities requiring permits will be notified within the next 30 days.

Meet Failed to Resolve Differences

By JOHN HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — President Johnson and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin have failed to resolve any of their differences over such major world issues as Vietnam and the Middle East, but they intend to keep in direct contact on these and other problems they debated in their Glassboro summit conference.

The conference ended Sunday night after the two men had spent almost 10 hours together in two days at the small New Jersey town south of Philadelphia. Both told a cheering rain-drenched crowd of their desire to promote peace in the world.

Kosygin returned to New York in a helicopter provided by the President and held a news conference at the United Nations. There he abandoned the smiling countenance displayed at Glassboro and reverted to familiar Soviet attacks on Israel in the Middle East and the United States in Vietnam.

Johnson returned to Washington and said in a broadcast statement that "no agreement is readily in sight on the Middle Eastern crisis, and our well known differences over Vietnam continue."

But he added: "I believe it is fair to say that these days at Hollybush have made the world a little less dangerous."

Kosygin was scheduled to leave New York about noon today.

Moscow to report in detail to his Kremlin colleagues on his talks with Johnson. He indicated at the news conference he might visit some other countries on the way but did not say which ones.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, big now in New York, were left with the hard task of trying to negotiate some concrete accord out of what Johnson called "the spirit of Hollybush." They are expected to begin a series of talks in a day or so.

Hollybush is the name of the home of President Thomas E. Robinson of Glassboro State College where Johnson and Kosygin met on Friday and Sunday.

The major impression left by the conference was that the two leaders, while failing to resolve any of their major differences, had at least demonstrated the intention to keep their conflicts in bounds and thus reduce the risk of nuclear war.

The two leaders took sharply different lines in their post-conference statements. Johnson conceded the persistence of disagreements but emphasized his hopes for the future. Kosygin focused on his demands for an Israeli rollback in the Middle East and renewed the Soviet accusation of U. S. aggression in Vietnam.

Asked whether Johnson would receive as warm a welcome in the Soviet Union as Kosygin had received at Glassboro, the premier indicated that Johnson would not be invited under present conditions.

148 Enemy Soldiers Are Killed

By GEORGE McARTHUR
SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese paratroopers and South Korean marines bore the brunt of ground fighting in Vietnam Sunday and reported killing 148 Communist soldiers.

Only light and sporadic contact was reported by U. S. units conducting 21 major ground sweeps.

U. S. headquarters reported 153 American air missions over North Vietnam Sunday, almost all against supply routes. As they have for almost a month, American pilots avoided the Hanoi-Haiphong region. The official reason given was bad weather.

South Vietnamese paratroopers scored the biggest success of the day in the 1st Corps area just below the 17th Parallel dividing Vietnam. On a search-and-destroy operation the paratroopers jumped a major enemy force and reported they killed 105.

Supported by armored personnel carriers and air strikes, the airborne battalion of about 500 men overpowered what was evidently an enemy company or more. The South Vietnamese said they captured 19 weapons, including seven mortars and machine guns, and suffered only "light casualties."

A South Korean patrol ran into a guerrilla band in coastal Phu Yen Province and killed 43 while suffering no casualties, according to Korean headquarters. The fight lasted 2 1/2 hours. Then the guerrillas fled.

U. S. headquarters reported an unusual rescue Sunday when a big twin-rotor Chinook helicopter flew into Dinh Tuong Province about 40 miles southwest of Saigon to save a group of infantrymen trapped inside an armored personnel carrier.

The 13-ton vehicle had been blown up and overturned by a mine. The big chopper raised the vehicle so medics could get out the wounded. It was not known how many casualties there were.

Troops of the 173rd Airborne Brigade reported scattered contact in the central highlands area where Communist forces chopped up a paratrooper company last Thursday. Night bivouacs of the 173rd were harassed by grenade-throwing enemy but no major fights developed.

U. S. headquarters said late reports showed 106 North Vietnamese regulars died in the battle in which 80 U. S. paratroopers were killed and 130 wounded.

Military headquarters reported bombing weather over North Vietnam was generally good everywhere but in the Red River valley and the Hanoi-Haiphong area.

Navy and Air Force pilots ranged over the panhandle area stretching south from Hanoi to the 17th Parallel, mostly hitting roads, rails and truck and barge convoys.

Navy destroyers operated off the coast near Dong Hoi, shelling cargo barges on the coastal waterway. The Navy said seven barges were sunk by five-inch gunfire from a destroyer.
